

Only one filly was worth risking her secret -

SIERRA BLUE, by award winning Reno author, Suzanne Morgan Williams, is rooted in our eastern Sierra landscape, high country ranches, and high stakes racetracks.

Rosanne Parry, author of New York Times Bestseller, A WOLF CALLED WANDER, says:

A perfect tale for young horse lovers, brimming over with adventure and magic, found family and the mysterious power of healing.

For ages 10 and up - SIERRA BLUE is written to captivate 10 to 14 year old students the way Williams' evergreen novel BULL RIDER did. When Magic's best friend tells her secret, she escapes to her great-aunt's ranch in the Sierra to avoid constant teasing. She never imagines she might do the same to someone else, who her real friends will turn out to be, or that one horse could make such a difference to all of them.
