

Suzanne Morgan Williams is the author of the novels Sierra Blue and Bull Rider (for ages 10 and up) as well as eleven nonfiction books for children. Midwest Book Review “especially and unreservedly” recommends Sierra Blue for “all elementary, middle school, high school, and community library YA collections.” Bull Rider is a Junior Library Guild Selection, is on state award lists in Texas, Nevada, Missouri, Wyoming and Indiana, and received a Western Heritage Award from the National Cowboy Museum in Oklahoma City. Her nonfiction titles include Pinatas and Smiling Skeletons, The Inuit, Made in China, and China’s Daughters. Suzanne’s work takes her into classrooms and communities across the US and Canada, from Mexico to the Arctic. She is a Regional Adviser Emerita for Society of Children’s Book Writers and Illustrators. Visit www.suzannemorganwilliams.com.